RE: Testimonial

To Whom It May Concern:

I'm a male in my late 40's that enjoys an active outdoor life style that includes hunting, fishing and hiking. My most recently acquired passion away from work is white water rafting throughout the western United States. Last year, I took a bad oar stroke on a river in Idaho and began to experience pain in my right shoulder. Subsequent tests and imaging brought me to Dr. Todd Doerr of Spine and Orthopedic Specialists in Scottsdale, Arizona. Dr Doerr immediately recognized the extent of my injury, and set upon a course of treatment to heal this life-altering event. Using minimally invasive surgery, he was able to put my right shoulder back into 100% service. Since my correction under the capable and skilled hands of Dr. Doerr in December 2008, I have rowed another 190 miles of Idaho Rivers, and am preparing to row 273 miles in the Grand Canyon next month (October 2009)! Dr Doerr gave me back the one thing I cherish the most: my freedom to pursue the great things that life has to offer! Thanks, Dr. Doerr!
